Legal Update

A profound thank you to Chris King, JD, PhD, Montclair State University for serving five years as the Legal Update column editor. Sixty Years of American Psychological Association Amicus Curiae Briefs: 1962 to 2022

Dynamic Internet resources like SCOTUSblog are useful for staying abreast of news and analyses of legal happenings—and in the case of SCOTUSblog, those of the Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS), specifically. With respect to updates about the legal side of the psychology and law interface, the websites of the American Psychology-Law Society may currently be a far cry from the dynamism of a website like SCOTUSblog. However, AP-LS’s social media presence is a step in that direction.

Thus, it occurred to us, for the first author’s last column as editor of the Legal Update column of AP-LS News, to submit an entry that might serve as another step –albeit a humble one–in the direction of imitating some of the impressive offerings from SCOTUSblog, but specific to psychology and law. And so, rather than focusing on SCOTUS, we thought to focus on the amicus curiae briefs (amicus briefs, for short) of AP-LS’s parent organization, the American Psychological Association.

The Early Career Professionals Practitioner Grant

The Early Career Professionals Committee (ECP) was established in 2007 to provide a source of support for practitioners, scientists, and educators during a crucial period of professional identity development. It is important to recognize early-career professionals as there is often a myriad of novel challenges and concerns that they are required to navigate. Many of these concerns are often introduced after their graduate studies are completed. These challenges may include obtaining licensure, establishing private practices, and seeking continuing education credits. The ECP would like to further the mission of AP-LS to increase research, education, and training around diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Do you identify as an early-career professional (someone with less than 10 years since graduating) and currently practicing primarily as a practitioner? You may qualify for the ECP Practitioner Grant.

To apply, send a cover letter that includes:

- First and last name
- Year last degree was obtained
- Email address
- Telephone number
- Mailing address
- A letter of intent (1,500 word maximum) that describes
 - Your current professional role(s) and connection to the field of psychology and law
 - How you intend to use the grant
 - How receiving the grant will enhance your practice and career growth
 - How receiving the grant will further the practice of psychology and law
 - How receiving the grant will contribute to broader impacts to society and the broader mission of AP-LS to increase efforts in diversity, equity, and inclusion.
